“ Dearest Tedd and Joyce, was saddened to hear about the passing of Aunt Alice. She was a sincere, kindhearted, compassionate lady. Truly loved the times I spent with her and Uncle Carl during our two tours to Virginia. I learned what it was to be gracious by seeing the example she had always shown. People never seem to associate being a little humble as part of gracious, but by watching her, I understood how to be gracious...it just isn't something I have learned to master as of yet. But, if time tells, and the grace of God gives me a few more years , I'm hoping to become the person she was. Uncle Carl waited a long time for her to come home. Bless her for blessing us by staying so long on earth. In An Angel's Arms

*I saw a shadow of someone i knew,
But somehow i misplaced,
Where and when, i had known,
That so familiar face.
Then at a glance, i saw myself,
What i had thought to be,
A quiet place to lay my head,
Yet i was fast asleep.
Family and friends i love so dear,
They're here, yet some keep fading.
Whispering, as if not to let me listen,
Why is everyone waiting?
Looking back toward where i was at rest,
I'm lying all alone,
Approaching ( myself) with uttermost caution,
Silent cries still moan.
Once, again, the shadow appears.
A faint glow lit from behind.
Standing much bigger than before,
Your wings spread open wide.
Realizing now you've come for me,
Your gentleness shows no harm,
And when i turn, it's you i see,
I'm held in an angel's arms.
Always remember, they will be waiting.*
