“ Cousin Eliza Christine Culpepper was buried today after a graveside service that I like to call a homecoming. A strong Christian lady, she trusted in God's faithfulness, and undoubtedly, is rejoicing now with loved ones who passed before her. In her lifetime, Christine held tightly to traditional values, which carried her through good and difficult times. She was devoted to her entire family and to helping others in need. Few things gave her more pleasure than conversing with family, friends, and acquaintances. It is fitting that a tribute be paid to this beautiful life so recently ended. Her memory will always remain, and the results of her consecrated work will be known in eternity. My thoughts and prayers are with the family. Susan Fuller Slack
