

Doyle Ernest Richardson

November 20, 1935 - December 28, 2024

Doyle Ernest Richardson, a former Mayor and attorney who practiced law in Tullahoma for over 50 years, passed away peacefully on Saturday, Dec. 28, 2024, in Jacksonville, FL, with his wife and children by his side. He was 89.

A man with a long, interesting life, Doyle had a lifelong interest in genealogy, and we believe he would have appreciated a very, very thorough obituary left behind as a record!

Doyle Richardson was born November 20, 1935, the youngest child of the late William

Thomas “Tommy” Richardson and Fannette Malcom Richardson. He was born in Good

Hope, Walton Co., GA, in a farmhouse situated on land that had been owned by the Malcom family for more than a century. His parents soon moved to a nearby farm in Fairplay, Morgan Co., GA, where he spent his elementary and high school years. He attended the one-room elementary school in Bostwick, GA; helped his father plow (by mule!) and harvest their cotton fields; and survived being gored by a bull he was raising as a 4-H project.

Doyle graduated from Morgan Co. High School in 1953. An outstanding football player and team captain, Doyle received a football scholarship from Vanderbilt University.

A timely and narrowly approved school consolidation plan added a 12th grade to the 11-year

program, allowing for additional classes that helped Doyle meet Vanderbilt's admission requirements. Doyle also had the distinction of serving as two-time senior class president and was voted "Best All-Around."

Doyle had never been outside of the state of Georgia (nor had his parents) when he arrived by bus at Vanderbilt in the fall of 1953. A hard-hitting 5'11, 175 lb. SEC center and linebacker for the Commodores, Vanderbilt head coach Art Guepe once told a reporter

"Doyle Richardson is the hardest hitting tackler I ever saw. If he weighed any more it would be illegal to play him." Doyle played on the Vanderbilt 1955 Gator Bowl team that defeated

Auburn 25-13 in the first nationally televised bowl game. Legend has it that he tackled future Alabama governor Fob James and made him fumble. He never missed a five-year

reunion of the Gator Bowl squad, which was inducted into the Tennessee Sports Hall of Fame in 2015 on Coach John Majors' nomination.

At Vanderbilt, Doyle was a member of ROTC and Sigma Nu fraternity, graduating with a degree in business administration in 1957. He had a “red shirt” fifth year of football scholarship eligibility, which he used to enroll in Vanderbilt Law School. And there, he discovered his life calling.

After a year of law school, Doyle was called to active military service in 1958 as a Second Lieutenant. He completed U.S. Army Intelligence School at Fort Holabird, MD, and was assigned to active duty in 1959 as a U.S. Army intelligence officer at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, AL. He was promoted to First Lieutenant in 1960 while serving in the U.S. Army Counterintelligence Corps. He next served as an investigator (GS-9) in the Inspector General’s Office, Army Ordnance Missile Command at Redstone Arsenal. Among his duties was vetting German scientists brought to the U.S. to work in the rocket program. Doyle interviewed Dr. Wernher von Braun numerous times to verify information provided about work they had done under him in Germany during World War II. He also conducted security inspections at installations at Redstone Arsenal, Cape Canaveral FL, and White Sands NM. While in Huntsville, Doyle attended the University of Alabama and earned a certificate in Accounting. After completing military service, he re-entered law school and graduated in 1964. He was a member of Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity; member of Moot Court (awarded best brief); received the Edmund Morgan Award for Academic Achievement; and served as president of the Vanderbilt Bar Association. During these years, Doyle worked for law firms on behalf of Standard Oil of Kentucky in a prominent dispute involving the trade name "Esso" against Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Doyle was admitted to the Tennessee bar in March 1964, and joined the law practice of Henry & McCord (later Henry, McCord, Forrester & Richardson) in Tullahoma. Later law partnerships were Forrester and Richardson; Rogers, Richardson and Duncan; Doyle E. Richardson, Attorney; and Richardson & Richardson (with his wife Jan).

He achieved many distinctions in the practice of law, including serving on the Board of Governors of the Tennessee Bar Association; CoU'ee County Bar Association Vice President; CoU'ee County Court Magistrate; and through memberships in the American Bar Association, the American and Tennessee Trial Lawyers Associations, the National Network of Estate Planning Attorneys, and the Mid-South Forum of Estate Planning Attorneys. He was admitted to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court in 1987. After moving to Florida in 2000, he passed the Florida bar exam at the age of 66. He was member of the Florida Bar Association and the Martin County Bar Association; the National Association of Family Wealth Counselors; and the Planned Giving Council of Martin, St. Lucie, and Indian River Counties. He was rated “AV Preeminent” – the highest possible rating for an attorney – through Martindale-Hubbell Peer Review Ratings. Doyle was also committed to public service and education. He served as President of the Tullahoma Chamber of Commerce; as a member of the Tullahoma Industrial Board; on the UTSI Support Council; as a CoU’ee County Commissioner; on the CoU’ee Co. Metropolitan

Charter Commission; as President of the CoU’ee County Mental Health Association; as President of the Tullahoma Quarterback Club; as Trustee of the Motlow College Development Council; as Vice-Chairman of the CoU’ee Co. GOP; as Vice President of Lakewood Country Club; and as Deacon and Trustee of First Christian Church. He founded the John Holland and Wollman Scholarships and served as Chairman, facilitating the college education of generations of Tullahoma High School graduates. In business, Doyle was co-developer of Macon Manor and, farmer at heart, he also bred Charolais bulls and raised cattle and hogs commercially. Doyle was a lifelong Rotarian, in Tullahoma and in Stuart, FL, where he was a Paul Harris Fellow, a member of the Paul

Harris Society, and sponsored his late wife Judy and wife Jan as Paul Harris Fellows. Also, in Florida, he served on the Board of the Hibiscus Children's Center; as a member of the Town of Sewall's Point Board of Zoning Adjustment; and the Stuart, FL Sunrise Rotary Club.

Doyle served as Mayor of Tullahoma in 1986 and 1987. Among his accomplishments, he was proud to have helped spearhead the approval of a "liquor by the drink" city referendum that brought many new restaurants to Tullahoma. Doyle was honored with Tullahoma's Community Service award in 1997 and, in recognition of his lifetime contributions to the City of Tullahoma, the Mayor declared July 8, 2024, as "Doyle E. Richardson Day" during his last visit to Tullahoma.

Doyle enjoyed a large extended family during his long life. He married his loving wife Janice Bollinger Richardson in 1998 and, after they moved to Florida, he encouraged her to attend Nova Southeastern Law School, from which she graduated to join the Florida Bar with him.

She continues to practice law in Jacksonville, FL and Tennessee.

“ Jeff and Lee Ann...I am so sorry for your loss. My family and I will be forever grateful for the times we needed an exceptional lawyer. I will never forget how your dad represented my sister when she was suspended for a fight at school. She was fighting in self defense (the girl jumped her from behind while she was climbing the bleacher stairs). My mother wrote countless letters and the whole school system of Tullahoma was investigated. Tullahoma High School was given 30 days to fix the students' records OR the government funds would be shut off! Doyle was the perfect lawyer and family friend! He also chose me to be a recipient of the Holland Scholarship and wrote recommendation letters for other scholarships, which aided me in graduating from college, debt free! We have lost a great man. Rest in paradise Mr. Richardson!
