“ I love them! What great friends they were to my father Bud Carpenter, who lived down the street. Vera, his wife, was best friends with them, and they enjoyed playing cards and dominos every week. We're going to see them in heaven, I'm sure!

“ I wanted to let the family know how much I enjoyed knowing Jo this past year. I volunteer over at Morning Pointe where I lead a reminisce discussion on Monday mornings. When Jo came, she had such a unique way of brightening up our time together. She was always ready with a funny story to make us laugh. I could hardly believe it when she told of riding her motorcycle, but perhaps the most entertaining story was about riding her pet pig. She definitely had a joyful, youthful outlook on life and a special way of endearing herself to all of us. We've missed her in the class lately, but she's left footprints in our hearts and will be remembered with great affection and love.
