“ Kaelan,

You are still my light to my day, I miss you and think of you all day every day. I dont understand why God took you from me, but there is a reason and I will never know why this happened to you. You were such a fighter and I just knew you were going to make it. Vanderbilt and all the doctors promised me you would be okay, but I guess I learned to not trust doctors. I am still hurting and so is your dad and brother but we are trying to be strong like you were all those months I carried you. I still feel you kick me and see your sweet face, its hard and it will be hard, but please keep an eye on us all. We love you. Fly high above in such a beautiful, harmless place. I'm glad you are out of pain and in God and the rest of the families hands. I know they're taking care of you. I love you. RIP baby girl <3
