“ I will always remember his smile. He could always smile even when he was upset or not feeling well. He had a wonderful heart and would do anything for anyone if he could. He loved his kids more than anything in this world. I would take him to his treatments and that is all he would talk about was his kids. There will be a void in this earth where he use to be but at least I will always have his memory as well as anyone who has ever meet him or got the pleasure of getting to know him.
