“ Marge....you will never be forgotten. I met Marge several years ago and she changed my view of life and taught me much about many things..how to forgive..how to be more patient..how to be more understanding and more compassion for others...just to name a few. I watched this wonderful lady in complete awe. For her never ending love of her family, her never ending endurance and her will to keep living each day to make it count for something and always teaching her grandson good morals and manners and allowing him to be a little man..although she would often be a nervous wreck if he went out to play she always had her eye on him even though mommy and daddy were always close by him as well. I love you and miss you so much my sister, my friend. We will meet again.
