Lisa...I miss you so very much, I want to pick up my phone and text you as I often did from work and you would be up going to bathroom or coming back from, and you would text for a minute or two. I miss driving to your house. I miss you calling/texting me just to make sure that I am ok. All those things and so much more..I never thought that you would just simply NOT be there..I just never let that thought come into my head. I had just recently found you after over ten years and was so happy to have my friend, my soul mate back in my life. When we first talked that day and you told me about your journey to the other side and you looked at me and said "I just don't understand why I am here?" and I told you that God had plans for you that were not finished and that maybe part of that was to be my friend and walk with me and guide me. Now I am the one that does not understand. I do not question God, and I know that you were called home because it was time. I just need you so bad and was not ready to let you go Lisa. I feel so selfish and I know that I am certainly not alone in mourning the loss of a special person, a dear friend, a sister.., a mother and a wife. You touched the lives of so very many. I can say that I am forever grateful to have had the good fortune and blessing to have found you again and allowed to be a part of your life towards the end..I just wish we had more time and I just can not help but feel that way. I will always love you and I am forever changed because of you..I just still cant believe you are gone...it just seems like a really long and terrible dream and that i will wake up and see you. I did not get to come to the service today..I had to work and had to sleep, but also I think a big part of me convinced my self that if i did not go, then i could pretend just a little longer that it was a dream and you really still here, but that was wrong of me Lisa..your family, your son and your daughter, Raymond..they needed me..I am so sorry that I did not make it for them. But I promise you i will be there for them. My sweet precious sister, my dear friend..I love you forever.

“ I had the privilege of being Lisa's pastor a Restoration Baptist Fellowship)formerly Lincoln Heights: I led her to faith in Christ, baptized and disciple her. In addition she followed me to pastor Rutledge Hill Community Church in Hillsboro. Lisa helped me keep my sermons notes organized on a regularly basis....and we spoke often via the phone. While I grieve her death-I rejoice knowing that I led her to faith in Christ and she is in Heaven with her Bob and Sue today...free from all illness and pain. Be assured of our continued thoughts and prayers for your family

“ Lisa,

As I called her..mostly though I referred to her fondly as just..sister., was one of a kind. She did not demand much from anyone and gave much. She always had a smile and a warm hug and sound advise if you asked her for it. She didn't have a lot of money,however., amazingly she gave monthly to little Indian children that she had adopted and she would receive updates and progress reports on them occasionally and they would make her things and send them to her in the mail. It made her smile. She also gave to a couple of other organizations,,soldiers,etc.. and she gave proudly. I had not seen Lisa in over ten years and was so happy to reconnect with her when I ran in to her a few months ago. We talked regularly and on one occasion early on she told me the story of when she died on the operating table..she said it was so amazing and beautiful that she could not quite put it into words. She told me that she just could not understand why God sent her back to this earth? She stated that of course she knew she had Brandon and Raymond and Brittany..still she wondered what his plan could possibly entail to take her away from such peace,beauty,and oh the sounds of singing., she said it is just that i can not put it into words. I told her that God had more for her to do here on earth and that I needed her in my life and that I felt part of the reason she came back was for me I told her. we called/text each other regularly and the last conversation we had she told me that she would always be there for me. When I did not hear from her for a couple of days..I thought "something is not right" I desperately tried to reach her. I text her and no response..I knew something was wrong. I love you always and forever Sister. My love and my soul mate in a friend...I miss her so much!!! I will never forget you sister..never, love you so much..Debbie Wilson
