“ The ebb and flow of life and death are never understandable to us. How can a wonderful person who has a young, beautiful daughter be taken from this world long before she got to see her daughter grow up? I believe that God is building his army in heaven and he needed Monica. Not when we were ready, but when he needed her. Not on our terms, but on his. This gives me peace in knowing that I will see her again and I thank God that it will be on his terms. God bless Monica's family and friends as I will keep all in my prayers.

“ I worked with Monica years ago and we instantly clicked, there was something about her that was magnetic and made you feel good. She was also a true, unwavering friend that brought joy to myself and so many. Her kindness and sincerity was obvious to everyone she met. She will be missed. Monica was a dear friend. No matter what kind of day I had she always had that smile on her face to comfort you. After her shift was over at London's she would always go around and thank everyone for the tip they gave her personally. She really appreciated everyone's friendship and kindness. R.I.P. Monica. Your battle with cancer is done. You can rest now.
