She was a native of Alabama and had lived many years in Chattanooga before moving to Tullahoma, where she was a longtime resident. She relocated to Hill View Retirement Center in Portsmouth four years ago to be closer to her family. She was a devoted Methodist and true Southern lady who enjoyed cooking, socializing, needlework, crossword puzzles, reading, church work, and bridge until physical limitations curtailed those pleasures. She, also, enjoyed watching the University of Tennessee and University of Alabama football games as well as the NFL Tennessee Titans. She was retired from the Materials Division of the Arnold Engineering Center in Tullahoma, Tennessee.

The family appreciates the health care and services provided by the Southern Ohio Medical Center and Hill View Retirement Center medical staffs.

“ I know Grandmother Manning is in heaven, but she will be greatly missed. She welcomed me right away into her family and loved me like one of her own grandchildren. She was such a sweet, caring, funny and wonderful lady. It was an honor knowing her. I hope I can be a lot like her.
